PROFILE

I am a strong champion of the balance between nature and built environment. As much as possible, nature should be a part integrated into every architectural design to make spaces more livable and breathable. In my perspective, a good architecture is not about unique design, but it is the maximisation of the residents' satisfaction by making full use of space and its surrounding.

I am a hardworking person who is quality-oriented. I would go to great length to make sure that the work I produced is the best it can be. Furthermore, I am also a fast learner and a resourceful person; I self-learned photoshop skill and architectural photography through the available online resources
