PROFILE \

Natapon Akomsoontorn started as an Architect at the Urban Redevelopment Authority, Singapore, in 2012 where he was part of the Urban Planning and Design team to conceptualize and develop Singapore's Master Plan 2013 for the realization of sustainable development and high density housing growth initiatives in the River Valley, Dairy Farm, and Dover planning areas, and the commercial and institutional central hub of Paya Lebar Central.

Transitioning from the public to private sector with ONG&ONG in 2013, Natapon continued to contribute towards the development of Singapore's urban fabric with a diversified portfolio of livable, high density housing to responsive commercial spaces from project lead roles. He eventually joined the DPA team, and collaborates with DP Design on commercial and institution developments.

Natapon brings with him valuable experience on challenging projects spanning residential, commercial, and urban planning & design, while specializing in project management, contract documentation, contract administration, and project handover. Natapon adopts a strong hands-on approach to every project, and from a leadership role helps inspire and foster the collaborative process amongst the stakeholders in effecting meaningful and pragmatic development to achieve successful implementation and delivery.
