Pondok Pinang Residence

South Jakarta
2020

The residence stands in a site sandwiched by various residential settlements within a dense urban area. There are two main massing that made up the house, with each its own qualities and functions. The ground floor contains general activities such as living, dining, pantry and service quarters, all inside a narrow rectangular box - while the second mass contains private functions, more voluminous and massive in comparison to the first mass.

Cinere Residence

The Cinere Residence has a very simple programming. It was made out of two boxes that were stacked on top of each other. The top box serves as a canopy and shading for the box below it. The site has a wide span of openings on both the east and west side of the site, so the facade is mostly solid on the top floor while still has an opening towards the street level view, using a plane that closes up a large cover area of the windows.

Alam Sutera

Architect in charge with SYSU Architect

This project is an extension to a pre-existing house, that serves as additional functional space and a big landscape. It features a hidden entrance that can only be seen if you are sideways, providing a sense of privacy for the owner. The exploration of leveling is visible, where there are different elevations between some parts of the courtyard. The materials and colors that are chosen to bring a sense of familiarity to that of natural habitat, giving the owner sense of calmness.

Villa
Ciawi Ciawi, Bogor
2019

Villa Ciawi sits on a beautiful land in Bogor, Indonesia. This villa features a unique contrast, where the massing of the building is far from conventional, yet the use of materials and the facade emphasize on traditionality. The idea is to create a building that is modern, while preserving the local characteristic.
